- Save work frequently — you may need to abandon your desk mid-sentence
- At the start of any call: “I’m in an active alert zone. I may need to leave abruptly.”

☾ Night Alarm — The 30-Second Drill

Post this by your bed. Everything here exists so you don't have to think at 3am.

The First 5 Seconds

1. Siren or phone alert wakes you. Do not process. Just move.
2. Feet on floor → into shoes. Same spot every night.
3. Grab glasses and phone from nightstand.
4. Caffeine pill *(optional) — sip of water if bedside.

The Next 10–20 Seconds

5. Clothes: Pull on whatever is laid out. Speed over appearance.
6. Grab torch from nightstand if power is out.
7. Move to protected space or front door.

For Parents

8. One parent → child/children. Other → go bag. (Pre-assigned roles.)
9. Carry baby in babywear that's by the door. Do not stop to dress them.

Do not think. Follow the procedure.
Do not check your phone. The siren means go.
It gets easier. After 2–3 nights, the routine becomes automatic.

Preservation of life overrides all Shabbat prohibitions. If a siren sounds, you may and must use your phone, carry items, and do whatever is needed to reach shelter safely. This is not a leniency — it is halacha.

During Shabbat: Keep windows open for sirens · TV/radio must stay audible · Know your shelter route in the dark · Stay in shelter 10 min or until all-clear on TV/radio
